As restaurant operators navigate the uncertainty brought on by COVID-19 closures, many are seeking new ways to generate revenue. In response to this, some grocery store chains have created a platform to offer heat-and-eat meals from their customers' favorite local restaurants. Not only is this a potential new source of revenue during tough times, but also a way to attract new customers to your restaurant after the COVID-19 crisis is over. There are, however, several steps to successfully getting your most popular dishes into stores. Here are some things to consider before taking the plunge.

Not quite ready to take on grocery store shelves?

No problem! You can skip most of these steps and start selling heat-and-eat meals right away, out of your own establishment. With the popularity of meal prep preceding COVID-19, there's potential for a long-term appeal to consumers who enjoy the added convenience.

Because heat-and-eat meals to-go can be prepared in advance to ordering, it will also be important to know which foods you serve reheat and travel well. Click here to learn more.

PACKAGING

Retail packaging for heat-and-eat meals should be appealing and functional. Customers who already know your brand should immediately recognize it, and those unfamiliar should be drawn to it. To preserve product quality and integrity, you should use packaging materials that are functional across common reheating methods where possible. Ask your Marketing Associate for local packaging details and availability.

Remember customers shop with their eyes! Pay attention to presentation in heat-and-eat containers.

PRICING

Consumers who would normally dine-in at your restaurant will be thrilled to see their favorite dishes can now be found at their local grocery store. But unlike eating at your restaurant, heat-and-eat dinners will miss classic elements like atmosphere and service. Customers may expect to see that reflected in the price. It's also important to research state-specific tax laws and competitor pricing within your local grocery stores.

CUSTOMERS

Determine your market. Know how well your product sells, and to whom. You might conduct a survey with your customers to gain insights into which grocery stores they shop frequently in order to identify your prospective buyers. When you approach store buyers, this information will help make your product more attractive and position you and your company as potential business partners.

LABELING

Specific FDA guidelines and state-specific laws apply for selling packaged food to consumers directly or to other businesses for sale to consumers. But in many cases, there are special exemptions if you plan to sell minimal units for a short period of time, such as a temporary revenue stream during the COVID-19 crisis. For most operators, this label template will be fine. You can simply fill in the details and get it printed from a local print shop or online store. Additionally, you can seek help from the grocery supplier resources for any labeling guidelines that may be specific to that grocery store. For more detailed labeling instructions for long term endeavors, see Sysco's Retail Labeling Guidance to learn more about labeling packaged foods for retail.

CONTACTS

Networking can be the key between a successful grocery campaign and a missed opportunity. Before you make the call to sell your product, make sure you are talking to the decision-maker. Most grocery stores have dedicated buyers in charge of what goes on their shelves. Find out who the right contacts are and learn the best way to set up an appointment to present your products.

SELL YOUR PRODUCT

Once you secure an opportunity to present your products, make sure you're prepared with all documentation like market research, sales records and customer testimonials. You should also bring plenty of samples for both the packaging in all sizes and tastings of the dishes you plan to include. Food samples should be cleanly plated and served at the ideal temperature for the dish, even if you are required to wait a while.

TAKE-OUT Family-Style

A MESSAGE FROM CHEF NEIL

Right now, chefs have an opportunity to provide people with something that is sorely needed, comfort. Boredom and anxiety are on the rise and comfort food is a popular solution for both. Takeout family-style meals are an excellent way for chefs to support their communities. Though these types of meals may not be overly exciting, they are important. And you can put your own creative spin on them, taking them from easy speed-scratch meals to a unique dish full of local flavor.

Changing TIMES

The growing concern for the COVID-19 pandemic has caused many consumers to distance themselves socially by reducing their daily activities in the community. Additionally, to prevent the spread of COVID-19, many state and city governments have called for a shutdown of all restaurants, bars and public events – with the exception of takeout and delivery. This will ultimately impact the frequency at which the public chooses to eat out.

A recent Datassential survey states that 89% of consumers feel safer eating at home. This poses new challenges that will require restaurants to find creative ways to appeal to consumers. One way to address this abrupt social shift is to provide your community with familiar and comfortable dining options like family-style meals that your customers can enjoy in the sanctuary of their own homes.

SEEKING Comfort

Family-style meals are a great way to provide comfort to families in these uncertain times and are also the most cost-effective and efficient ways to execute an off-premise dining program. Some operators have found success by creating a separate, limited takeout menu that offers a few select items. This also has the added benefit of reducing back-of-house labor. Meals that are quickly and easily assembled can provide operators with an efficient means of fulfilling consumer needs and driving revenue for their operation.

Delivery and takeout give operators an opportunity to do their part in prevention, as well as sustain their business during this time of social distancing. Working with limited staff can pose significant labor challenges for full-service operators, but a limited menu can help mitigate that. Consider a limited family-style offering of just 3-5 different takeout entree options, paired with 1-2 of your side dishes. This decrease in variability drastically reduces the odds of back-of-house mistakes and the resulting unfavorable customer experience.

Individual takeout menu items require a higher number of to-go ware pieces. An emphasis on large-size family-style menu items can ultimately reduce your packaging costs even in times of increased takeout and delivery orders. In addition, having a set family-style menu allows operators to reduce their inventory of products, which leads to a decrease in overall cost and exposure while still maintaining a high overall standard of food and service quality.

Some foods retain their flavor and texture better than others during the takeout or delivery timeframe. Sandwiches, salads and wrap platters are all excellent examples of family-style takeout or delivery meals that are popular in times like these. Short pastas, such as cavatappi and penne, retain their quality during transport. Fried foods can lose their crisp; however, Sysco has developed several distinctive fried products that hold up better over time. For example, Sysco Imperial Ultimate Crisp Heavy Battered French Fries, which are coated in an extra-thick batter to ensure a crisp outside and buttery interior. Selecting your menu items and takeout containers with travel in mind will increase customer satisfaction and likely will result in an uptick of re-ordering.

POPULAR Takeout & Helivery ITEMS

Grilled Meats - Grilled meats reheat easily and maintain their integrity in takeout and delivery applications.

Vegetables - Steamed or grilled firm textured vegetables like carrots, broccoli and fresh green beans should be prepared all dente, so they don't overcook when reheated. Canned vegetables can give you more of a country-style appeal and are great as a side to meat-based entrees.

Pizza and Flatbread - These delivery and takeout staples can be prepared ahead of time allowing for shorter ticket times and support increased demand.

Casseroles & Pot Pies - A hearty choice with extended hold capabilities. Pot pies and other casserole dishes may also be prepared in disposable foil pans for easy cleanup and storage of leftovers.

Pasta Dishes - Baked pasta dishes such as lasagna and baked ziti can be prepared ahead of time and in bulk for ease of service and reheating.

Sandwiches and Wraps - Convenient, extremely portable and suitable as a meal or snack at any time of the day. Pair with grab-and-go items for a complete meal.

Salads - A healthy option that can be served with grilled meats and an array of toppings or dressings. Sysco Imperial Fresh salad mixes are HCAAP safe, provide ease of portioning and maximum shelf life.

A GUIDE TO QUICK Family-Style Meals

In times of anxiety, people often turn to familiar food to reassure themselves and their families.

Comfort foods are called that for a reason; they let diners relax and eat something they know they'll enjoy without having to make many decisions. Since cities started COVID-19 quarantine procedures, sales of comfort food items have seen a drastic increase with noodles, sandwiches and classic hot dishes leading the way.

But what's in the dish matters less than the memories associated with it, studies have shown. This means the ideal comfort foods are going to vary for different people based on location and ethnicity. Spending some time upgrading popular local comfort foods on your menu and making sure they stand out as winners will set you apart.

Nourish the Kids to Snap-Back Sy

Catering to kids is an excellent tactic for gaining business and increasing check size, especially with most schools being closed during this time and as we go into summer. How parents and kids perceive their experience at your restaurant could have a great impact on their choices. Look into boosting your business by offering a unique family experience to Snap-Back.

WHAT STRATEGIES CAN YOU FOLLOW TO BOOST FAMILY LOYALTY?

- Find the sweet spot between what parents feel good about feeding their children and meals that kids will enjoy. Parents are looking for wholesome options for their children. Making kids' nutrition part of your mission is meaningful to parents when making restaurant choices.
- Offer a free kids' menu item with the purchase of an adult meal for in house dining or a free cookie or brownie for takeout and delivery. Parents may be more inclined to choose your restaurant if they know that their kids meal or treat will incur no additional cost.
- Offer kid-centered experiences. Make your own pizza kit for kids or bake n' decorate kits which include instructions, crayons and a coloring sheet can be a great way to engage with the little ones.
- Make Mom's life easier. Many families now face new challenges: how do we care for our children while working and schooling at home? Become a partner to solve demanding family struggles such as providing a week-long supply of nutritious lunches and snacks for pickup or delivery.

Looking into kids' offerings with fresh eyes to drive traffic and boost sales can be a great way to Snap-Back!

Let's Celebrate to Snap-Back

HOST VIRTUAL CELEBRATIONS FOR YOUR CUSTOMERS

Restaurants are a place to celebrate and dining out is not just an ordinary occasion. Now more than ever, diners want to experience the good times at the dining table and celebrate special occasions with their loved ones at home. Offer your customers the opportunity to celebrate, even while at home, just as they would at your establishment. This is a great opportunity to show them that you care and miss them at your restaurant.

WHAT TO CELEBRATE?

- Birthdays offer a special birthday dessert in your menu.
 Prepare a special video from your staff with your signature "happy birthday" song.
- Kid's Birthdays offer a free kid's menu for the birthday girl or boy, make your own pizza kit, cookies, cake or cupcake baking kit.
- Graduations many graduates are missing out on a live graduation. A kit to celebrate at home and a video from your staff will make them feel extra special.
- Anniversaries dinner for two with wine pairings.

HOW TO IMPLEMENT?

- Offer special items or even a meal kit in your menu for celebrations.

 This can include "Make-Your-Own" kits for pizza, tacos, sushi, special desserts or ready-made special meals.
