POULTRY

Supply is available on all offerings, especially wings. Thigh and leg meat demand conitnues to slow as we move into the holidays. Tenders continue to be the best value in chicken.

SEAFOOD

Tis the season to celebrate with seafood! As holiday gatherings, catering events, and festive parties fill the calendar, now is the perfect time to feature crowd-pleasing favorites like cooked shrimp, King Crab, Snow Crab, Dungeness Crab, Stone Crab, and premium smoked salmon. Make seafood the centerpiece of every holiday spread and give your customers something worth celebrating!

BEEF

The choice cutout once again moved lower over the past week. Rounds, briskets and chucks are the primals putting them most pressure on the cutout value.

PORK

Softer demand, surplus supply, & less export due to healthier foreign hog health have left pork markets across all cutouts outside of ribs fairly soft. Markets are expected to rebound marginally going into December; many believe pork has hit the floor and, overall, cutouts will not go lower.

GRAINS & OILS

Soybean oil is slightly bearish in the near-term with rapid planting in Brazil, good weather, fund selling, and crop progress. the oil/meal ratio is improving in favor of soybean oil.

DAIRY

The weekly butter market average price for this week is $1.311 per lb. up $0.0230 per lb. from the prior week.

RUSSET POTATOES
40-70 ct remain in lighter supply and high demand with markets continuing to increase. All growers are reporting lighter yields which vary across the state. Sizing is smaller. Quality remains good. Washington market is also higher.

ONIONS
The market is lower on yellows and reds due to lighter export demand. Quality remains good from both areas. Overall volume is lighter this year.

GRAPES
Supplies starting to fall off on green and red.Heavy rain in Peru have increased concern on quality and supply for next month.

TOMATOES
Tomato supplies are extremely tight on both coasts. East, harvest is now transitioning over to Ruskin/Palmetto, heavy rain has slowed harvest. West, Mexico harvest also remains constrained by earlier weather events. Markets continue to be highly active.

STRAWBERRIES
California growers are recovering from the heavy rain last weekend which did significant damage. This event was another hard hit due to only having California in production. Mexico has started with light volume. Florida will start in 2 weeks. Quality is fair. Market is higher.

MUSHROOMS
Supplies are lighter overall industry wide due to cooling weather, new compost and farm closures. Volume will be increasing for the holidays to try to compensate.
